

Why AP Industrial?

In 1977 AP Industrial opened its doors for business, and for over 30 years has been providing its products and services. We are a family run business, with family values. To us, every customer is a member of our family.

We are a unique company because of our two divisions; Surface finishing and Technical Products. With these two divisions we are able to offer a multitude of products and services that no other business can match.

A leader in two different industries, our name symbolizes that of quality. As an ISO9001:2008 certified and AS9100 compliant company, we have a high standard for quality that centers on continual improvement. You can rest assured that your product will be made with the highest regard for quality.

If you chose AP Industrial, we will listen to your needs and help you customize your product accordingly. We will work for you, creating your product and at the same time building your confidence.

Come and join our family, and let us work for you!
